Cyberschools LLC

“This partnership will enhance our training capabilities and add more targeted trainings to our portfolio within the security realm”, said Bhavya Mehta, Chief Student Officer of Cyberschools. “This partnership will provide us the platform to expand our training for students and professionals across and beyond the continent. We believe that with the right set of training, services and technology enablement, this partnership will be fruitful for both firms”.

PECB

“This partnership addresses a specific market need. Organizations are looking to simplify integration, and I believe that together with Cyberschools LLC this can be more easily managed,” said Tim Rama, CEO of PECB. “This partnership brings customers an independent open plan, so they can retain tractability in their long-term training decisions. Therefore, I believe that with the right combination of techniques and services, together we will succeed,” concluded Rama.
